Pentecost – It's Still Happening!

This month, as we reflect on Pentecost's power in our lives, I give thanks for Kevin Dayhoff's collaboration with me in this article. You can read Kevin's articles about Pentecost on www.TheTentacle.com for more details of the subjects we can only write about briefly here in the newsletter.

May 19 was Pentecost Sunday; the fiftieth day after Easter and the birthday of the church. Along with Easter and Christmas, Pentecost is one of the three most important festivals in the church. It's time to renew the spirit of Pentecost in our daily lives. Here's why.

Pentecost has many meanings, which are, in essence, really only different parts of the elephant in the room. The English word 'Pentecost' is actually a transliteration of the Greek word 'pentekostos,' which means 'fifty.'

Pentecost is considered by Christians to be the 'Birthday of the Church.' It was during Pentecost Sunday when the Holy Spirit descended upon the Twelve Disciples and followers of Jesus. Today, Pentecost is the important celebration of that fateful day when the Apostles were bestowed the gift of the Holy Spirit enabling them to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to all peoples and nations.

The gift of the Holy Spirit completes the Christian church's faith in God as Trinity. Our earliest and initial experience with God is that of the Creator - in nature, of heaven and earth. Our second relationship with the Trinity is through God's son, Jesus Christ, and the story of his life, death and resurrection. Equally as important is the Christian concept that the Holy Spirit of God is part of our day-to-day world. Yes, Pentecost may have its roots in history, but the spirit of Pentecost lives and breathes in the present and has a direct effect on our future.

On May 19, here at Grace the congregation witnessed seven young adults publicly affirming their baptisms as they promised to continue to welcome the Holy Spirit's presence in their lives as they strive for peace and justice in all the world. Other worshippers were invited to recall our own baptismal covenant to live as God's faithful people in the world.

Today, many conversations are taking place concerning the health and future of the Christian Church. The statistics on the shrinking church are grim and compelling and require our immediate attention. Fortunately a dialogue has begun in earnest to identify the challenges we face so that we can talk about solutions and spread the word. Please see Kevin's articles for details about where you can find and participate in some of these conversations.

The most important question is this: Just where do we go from here? Many are asking the same question. Many are looking to others for the answers. Maybe, beginning with the celebration of Pentecost, we need to look inside for the answers.

This comes at a time when leadership, values and beliefs could not be more important to addressing the challenges we face. Take a memo, faith in the government to lead us out of this wilderness just is not going to cut it.

In March 2005, columnist Doug Giles, said it best in an article, "Robust Faith," in the publication, TownHall.com; in which he admonished, "If Christians would toughen up a bit, get out of the religious closet, follow their faith instead of their fears, and live their beliefs in a more robust way, we would once again change the face of this nation..."

"If the Christian truly follows the Christ of the Bible and wants to impact this planet positively, then he will spend significant and intentional time away from his church buddies and in the company of people who are fundamentally not of his stripe..."

Here at Grace, we can see the Holy Spirit at work among us. Some of the ministry in which we engage is internal but much of it involves reaching out to the community. Consider these powerful ways in which God's Spirit is at work here at Grace:

- Serving more than 10,000 meals a year to our community...and beyond feeding people, we interact with the people in a loving way and on Thursdays offering a Bible Study prior to the evening meal;

- Teaching disciples, through Sunday School, Vacation Bible Camp, Mar-Lu-Ridge Day Camp, Confirmation Classes, week day Bible Studies for children through adults;
- Opening our building to community groups, including scouts, AA, the Red Cross and the Carroll County Children's Chorus;
- Sending groups of youth and adults on mission trips to places where poverty and disaster have caused great hardships;
- Acting on our faith in daily living as 400+ people from Grace work day by day in schools, health care, business, government, non-profits, and many, many other places as either employees or volunteers.

It is the Holy Spirit that brings the church to life and provides meaning to our lives. Without the Holy Spirit, the church is just another social club in town. It is the Holy Spirit that makes the church a critical part of the fabric of our community.

Those of us who are Christian and have benefited from the gift of the Holy Spirit and share in the opportunities it provides have profound responsibilities that come with that gift of life – and that is to share with others the joys of the church and a better life that comes with knowing Christ.

Pentecost is very much alive today. The Spirit surprised the first disciples with power and new life. Can the Spirit still surprise us now? We think so! We invite you to join us in celebrating the Holy Spirit's powerful activity among us!

Silent Observation

I remember my first day in physics class and the first assignment. Each student was given a lighted candle and a blank sheet of paper. The instructions were simple, write down 100 observations concerning the candle. I think I came up with twenty or so things that I could observe with my untrained eyes. Toward the end of the class we were given the chance to take on the same assignment and while I still couldn't come up with 100 observations I know I more than doubled my previous list. My physics teacher, Mr. Brumwell, was making the point that with training we can learn to be more observant of the world around us. I have carried this lesson with me and applied it to most aspects of my life.

In my walk of faith I have become increasingly concerned that as the children of God who have been entrusted with the faith in the early years of the 21st century we have become so self-involved as to lose sight of the center of the faith, Jesus Christ. Eighty years ago the German theologian Dietrich Bonhoeffer gave a series of lectures around the question of "Who is Jesus?" He said, "Insofar as the church proclaims Christ it must fall down in worshipful silence before the unspeakable. God's word is unspeakable. Speaking of Christ originates in silence. Silence about Christ is the ground of speech. This is what it means to make an obedient response to the revelation of God that occurs in the Word. The speaking of the church through silence is the proper proclamation of Christ. Prayer requires both silence and crying out at the same time, both in the presence of God in response to God's word." I believe that Bonhoeffer is calling upon his listeners to learn to be observant in silence. The divine and eternal nature of Christ isn't something that can be absorbed in a spiritual second. The ancients of the Old Testament fame would often fall to the ground in the presence of God fearful that in the presence of the divine power of God that they could literally be consumed by the awesome nature of God.

In our age it so often appears as if we treat the nature of God in Christ in a cavalier fashion. I suspect that we don't want to get too close a look at the nature of God because we might indeed discover in silence a word we did not expect, a word that indeed calls us to places and actions we are unwilling to undertake. Often it seems as if the name of Jesus is invoked and quickly applied to personal agendas. In the age of Bonhoeffer the Church of Germany was so interested in getting along with the powers of the age that they sold out to the Nazi movement. Bonhoeffer seemed instead to heed his earlier advice and spoke of Christ out of the great silence that revealed the God of love and justice.

Today many seek to put their ideas, loves, hates and prejudices into the mouth of Jesus—well-meaning people, who are much too quick to speak and too hurried to pause, to fall down in worshipful silence. Summer is now fast upon us and perhaps in the easy days of the season we may all take the time for some worshipful silence and be more observant and prayerful.

Not so long ago you should have received a message inviting you into a season of prayer concerning our Growth for Ministry program at Grace. Please indeed take the time to pray that your eyes maybe opened to the divine nature of Christ, that we the ministry of Grace will growth in faithful service to Christ and that we will have the courage to follow our Lord and Savior.

GRACE@WORK

Please join Pastor Martha and Pastor Kevin this summer for a special series of sermons and worship services designed to help us better understand and appreciate the “Means of Grace” ...that is the ways in which God comes to us in order to support, strengthen and guide us. You’ll learn more about how the Word of God speaks to us through scripture, sacraments, and daily living. We invite you to make a commitment to attend these six weeks, beginning on the weekend of June 8 and 9. This special theme will be experienced at all of our worship services: Saturdays at 5:00 and Sundays at 7:45, 9:00, and 10:30.

Let's Fill the Ark

by Laura Heller

The Social Ministry Committee of Grace Lutheran Church, in conjunction with Heifer International, would like to fill an Ark. Heifer's goal is to build on an individual's self-reliance for their nutrition and to possibly increase their family income. Initially, in 1944, a heifer was selected since it would provide milk and a calf that could be passed on to someone else. Since then, they have created a list of large and small animals that would bring benefits and reproduce for the continual future. Animals are selected for different parts of the world based on what is needed. All are not destined to become food, some are chosen as work animals for carrying and plowing.

The total gift of an Ark is $5,000 which is a lot for most individuals, but by contributing smaller amounts towards the purchase of each animal, we can achieve our goal of a complete Ark. Containers located in the upper and lower gathering spaces are available to collect loose change or you can take a Heifer change box and return it once it is full. Heifer envelopes are also available or you can simply write "Heifer Ark" in the memo line of your check and put it in the collection plate. Thank you for your support of this ongoing ministry.

Carroll County CROP Walk Recap

by Yvonne Aasen

God smiled down on the April 21 CROP Walk with a perfect sunny afternoon. Our 11 walkers from Grace Lutheran were part of the 79 area walkers (and three dogs) from 13 churches and organizations to raise a total of nearly $9,000 for Church World Service.

Thanks to the sponsors who made donations to help our walkers collect $1,169. Walkers were: Kevin Clementson; George & Elaine Conover; Craig, Lois, and Jeremiah Giles; Nancy Suder; Ashley, Ben and Logan Weber; and Yvonne Aasen. Also, thanks to Jan Mickey who volunteered at the registration table.

Of the total funds raised, 25% will be returned to Carroll County to support local agencies: Carroll County Food Sunday, Access Carroll and Shepherd's Staff. The other 75% will enable Church World Service to help people worldwide through self-help development assistance, disaster relief and recovery, refugee resettlement, education, justice and human rights, and more.

Thank you for your donations. We pray for God's blessings on the recipients of your generosity.

Timmy, the Terrible Hunger Terrapin

Timmy's Corner

Would those responsible for the weather pleeeeeease make up their minds? Just when we think it safe to crawl out for a while, we get another blast of non-refreshing chills. How's a body supposed to plan a meal or figure out what will be available just under the water's surface today? I guess it could be worse; I could have lived in Colorado this spring. Please, no fresh water mountain for me, I stick with the muck.

I believe this problem has two sides; it may be bad for me but good for you. Let me say this very clearly, "NO MOSQUITOES." Sounds simple enough right, may even be hopeful to many. No mosquitoes to bite you, no plump larva for me, who wins this one? Wind and cooler temperatures work in the humans favor and less bites mean less illness. But, that only applies in this country; Africa, oh brother, that's another story.

Back to the food problem for me now, unhappy terrapins are more apt to go for little toes dangling in the water while humans sit on my log, sunning themselves when it's warmer. We just can't eat fish every day. I may be difficult, but I need a variety. Anybody else for some larva or water bugs, don't be afraid to speak up. You don't eat cheeseburgers every day, do you?

You know, humans really have it made, at least in most countries. You have grocery stores and many varieties of food establishments to eat whatever and whenever you please, other countries, I'm not so sure. I wonder if third world countries have fast food places? What would they offer customers, beans and rice?

I'm sorry I've only talked about me, me, me, this month. It almost makes we want to share a meal with a crayfish, you know, someone completely different than me. How about you, do you know someone that looks different than you that you could share a meal with?

Please think about it and enjoy the mystery weather,

Timmy
